

I STRONGLY oppose any changes to the current FCC Decency Standards that would allow radio and television stations to broadcast expletives and nudity on the public airwaves, even if brief or "fleeting." Relaxing the current standards would not serve the public interest, and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow expletives and nudity to be broadcast on FCC-licensed stations.